Merchandise Suitable for "Bonus Prize" (Bottom level) Arms

For the near miss prizes, some suggestions are:

Various Candy & Sweet Packs

Keyrings

Nintendo Plush

Fashion Yo Yo

Pez Candy Dispensers

Austin Powers bottle openers

Mr. and Mrs. Potato Head

Teletubbies

Talking Furby Keyrings

Pokemon sticker cards

Skateboard key rings

Average cost price per item should be between 40 and 50 pence

Consolation prizes should be small enough to allow for up to 15 prizes on each of the 5 prize arms. Keep in mind that some products may do better than others depending on the country of operation. Naturally, the type of venue is an important decision-maker on the type of prize merchandise that you would operate.

Prize payout

Now comes the time to set the correct payout level. Our experience has shown that a payout range of between 25 - 30% is the ideal setting for this game.

Security Locking Rods (Fit only if required)

Security locking-rods are an excellent security device. These are designed to reduce the theft of prizes in machines and will reduce the instance of prizes being shaken off prize arms. The locking rods are located to run within the spiral of the prize arms. In the event an operator feels their site is well secured the machine will work correctly without having security rods. Please remember the security rods are designed as an additional security feature in Time Buster.

Note. The Security Locking Rods are supplied in the cash box of the machine. Our experience shows that they are not required in well supervised locations however we leave it to the individual operator to decide whether or not to fit them. The machine actually vends the prize more consistently without them.

Prize loading (Security rod fitted)

Unscrew (clockwise) and remove reverse threaded security rods from the spiral arm

Load prizes by looping hangers over the 'screw rails' of the prize arm – one per twist for small prizes – tit to suit for larger prizes. Reinstall security rod (if fitted) threading it OVER hangers. Use wire ties for prizes without hangers. Use a hole punch for prizes on 'cards' – make two holes in cards to allow prizes to hang facing front forward.

Once in place twist the security rod (anti-clockwise) until it locks into position. (If fitted)

Auditing Feature

Time Buster is equipped with auditing features that will help you fine-tune the operation of your machine. Simply analyse the win profile of a machine to select popular prizes for use in your Time Buster. The win profile also highlights prizes that are not popular with your customers. Time

Buster's audit feature enables you to assess the winning levels of various products as well as the skill level of your customers. An Accurate assessment of your customer's prize preferences and abilities is more clearly revealed to you if you remember to clear the audit features and not have old information combined with new information. Your Time Buster manual will show you how to clear old information in a few easy steps. Use the test switch to step into the audit menu and obtain the following details: -

Functions A01-A08 - The number of prizes won from each arm

Function A09 - The number of non-winning games

Function A10 - Total number of games played

Function A11 - Total number of games landing on 1000.

This information will enhance the finetuning of your machine and ensures that your Time Buster is making you money to the best of its ability.
